BROYLES JOINS CABARET CRUSADE

AMERICAN SINGER WHO WAS ARRESTED AS SPY

Miss Dorothy MacVane, daughter of Prof. Silas MacVane, of Harvard, was put under police surveillance at Taranto, Italy, where she was singing with an opera company, suspected of espionage. It is expected she will be released to-day and an apology made to her. Ambassador Page took up her case.

Pastors Contribute Sermons in State's Campaign on Weevil

MACON, Dec. 19.—Macon preachers have volunteered to contribute sermons to the movement just organized here for the resistance to the boll weevil invasion. State headquarters for the conduct of a boll weevil campaign will be opened in Macon soon by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and a fight will be planned that will reach into every county of Georgia. Macon merchants, bankers and farmers attended the meeting and subscribed to the fund. Several ministers also were present. The State Chamber plans a "boll weevil day" in January, when the attention of the entire State will be drawn to the proposition.

Savannah Chief in Row Over Fire Origin

SAVANNAH, Dec. 19.—Just where the fire originated that destroyed the Chapman Building, at a loss of $100,000, is the cause of a heated row between Fire Chief Monroe and S. Bernstein, whose store was destroyed. In his statements to the press the chief said the fire originated in Bernstein's place. Bernstein declared this to be in error, and the chief made hot reply.

Daniels Can't Stop 'Wine Launching'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Secretary Daniels has ruled that he has no jurisdiction over the kind of fluid that may be used to christen battleships. Pure water was suggested for the Oklahoma or releasing a white dove from the deck. "I have no doves, no wines, no champagne," he wrote. "It is a thing that is in the hands of the builders."

Women Awaiting Wilson's Ruling on Social Precedence

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Wives of Cabinet members and members of Congress are more anxious to have President Wilson make a ruling on the question of social precedence at the Capitol than their husbands. The women declare they are embarrassed as to the proper order of calls, pending a decision. Mrs. Claude Swanson, wife of the Senator from Virginia; Mrs. Duncan U. Fletcher, wife of the Florida Senator; Mrs. Garrison and Mrs. Redfield, wives of the Secretaries of War and Commerce, and Mrs. Burleson, wife of the Postmaster General, believe President Wilson's diplomacy will settle the matter.

Wolfungen to Sing at Free Sunday Concert

Herr De Cortez Wolfungen will be the soloist at the free organ concert Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Auditorium-Armory under Music Festival Association auspices. Charles A. Sheldon, Jr. will be organist, and Miss Mildred Harrison will be the accompanist.

Court War Opens on Savannah Saloons

SAVANNAH, Dec. 19.—Following a meeting of the Laymen's League last night, eight committees went to several saloons in the city and obtained what they say will be convincing evidence of violations of the prohibition act. Warrants and injunctions, said W. B. Sturges, the leader, would be served during the day on every place in the city. It is the first time since prohibition that such decisive action has been taken in Savannah.

Driven to Cell by Loan Sharks REBELS DESTROY TOWNS NEAR CAPITAL

TRIES FRAUD TO PAY OFF HIS DEBTS

Young Swindler Falls Into Trap
Set for Him at Window of Downtown Bank.

Declaring that he had been driven to desperation by the constant hounding of loan sharks and the approach of Christmas, S. B. Dickie, a young telegraph operator, living at No. 131 South Pryor street, was bound over under $500 bond Friday by Recorder Broyles on charges of forgery and cheating and swindling. "I had to have money to keep my creditors from running garnishments on my salary," said Dickie. "I have fairly been haunted by loan sharks who each day threatened to get my job. With Christmas so near, I had to have the money. I am guilty."

Dickie was arrested in the Third National Bank after he had walked into a cleverly arranged trap set by bank officials.

Sends Fraudulent Telegram. Thursday morning the bank received a telegram, purporting to come from the First National Bank of Birmingham, which read:

"Honor draft of R. A. Carter for $500."

Officials of the Third National, becoming suspicious, telegraphed the Birmingham bank for verification of the order, and were informed by that institution that the telegram was a fraud.

Harry Scott, of the Pinkerton force, was notified, and, with two city detectives, waited in the lobby of the Third National for Carter.

Shortly after noon Dickie appeared at the cashier's window and presented a telegram, which was addressed to R. A. Carter, and reading:

"Have wired Third National Bank to honor your draft." The dispatch was signed by the Birmingham bank.

The three sleuths who were waiting were signaled by the cashier, and they formed in line behind Dickie. As soon as he had received the $50 he was taken into custody.

So quietly was the arrest made that other patrons of the bank were not aware of the trouble.

Gen. Wood to Head Eastern Division

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, will succeed Major General Thomas H. Barry as commander of the Eastern Division, with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y., immediately upon the expiration of his term as chief of staff. It was announced by Secretary of War Garrison to-day.

General Wood had planned to tour Europe and Asia, but at the request of Secretary Garrison he will remain. Major General Barry has been ordered to the command of the Philippines Division to succeed Major General Franklin Bell.

Court War Opens on Savannah Saloons

SAVANNAH, Dec. 19.—Following a meeting of the Laymen's League last night, eight committees went to several saloons in the city and obtained what they say will be convincing evidence of violations of the prohibition act.

Girl Overcome by Heavy Perfume of Magnolia Bouquet

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Poisoned by the perfume of a large bouquet of fragrant magnolias, Miss Lovell Alice Taylor narrowly escaped suffocation in her apartment in the Hotel Oakland. Miss Taylor is under the care of Dr. D. D. Crowley and is slowly recovering.

Missing her at the breakfast table yesterday morning, Miss Taylor's sister entered the room to find her in a stupor from the heavy fumes of the flowers. Dr. Crowley worked an hour before completely restoring her.

Steffansson Party's Ship in Ice Jam; Men Walk 2,000 Miles

SEATTLE, WASH., Dec. 19.—The story of how they walked 2,000 miles from the Arctic Ocean to Circle City, Fairbanks and Valdez was related to-day by Captain Louis Lane, Eben Draper, of Boston, son of the former Governor of Massachusetts; Dunbar Lockwood, of Boston, and William T. Hudson, a newspaper photographer, who reached here from Valdez, by steamer.

The Polar Bear, their ship, they said they left fast in the ice off Flaxman Island. George Silsby and John Heard, both of Boston, refused to leave the vessel.

Captain Lane said there was small hope of the Kariuk, one of the Steffansson exploring party's boats, surviving the ice packs.

Christmas Ship, With Lady Decies, Arrives

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Her progress delayed by rough weather, head winds and high seas, the steamer Lusitania arrived to-day, bringing 7,765 sacks of Christmas mail and 860 of parcel post.

Among the passengers were J. P. Morgan and family and Lord and Lady Decies, who are going to George J. Gould's Lakewood estate for Christmas.

Aeroplane Flotilla To Cross the Sahara

SPECIAL Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Dec. 19.—The National Aerial League has completed plans for a flight of a flotilla of aeroplanes across the Sahara Desert. The aeroplanes will start from Arad, Algeria, and the final landing will be made at Timbuktu. Pyramids of stones will mark the route.

Becker Declares He Will Be Acquitted

YONKERS, Dec. 19.—Former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, who in death house at Sing Sing Prison for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, says his appeal will be decided in his favor. He feels sure of getting a new trial and being acquitted.

Sues Mill for $10,000 For Loss of One Arm

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19.—Lawrence Armstead has sued the Eagle and Phenix Mills for injuries he says he received last August. He says one of his arms was broken and had to be amputated.

He asks for $10,000 damages.

NET SPREAD BY HUERTA FOR SPIES

Zapatista Troops Surround Mexico City—Fall Expected on First Assault.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 19.—Rebel spies in this city, who are in the pay of General Emiliano Zapata, are keeping the Zapata insurgents in touch with the movements of the Federal troops.

General Huerta to-day ordered General Blanquet, the Minister of War, to overhaul his department thoroughly and arrest all on whom suspicion might fall.

The rebel bands are increasing in strength and are enlarging their activities. Twelve villages and hamlets have been wiped out in the past 48 hours within 25 miles of this city. Fifty non-combatants were killed and each place was looted before it was burned.

By means of guerrilla tactics the Zapatistas have kept the Federal forces divided and by means of knowledge of troops' movements secured through secret channels they are enabled to ambush the Government troops in the mountain districts.

It is estimated that there are now 8,000 Zapatista rebels within the Federal territory which surrounds this city. As Zapata is said to be co-operating with the northern rebels, the indications are that the capital will fall on the first assault made upon it.

Amunition Short.

A grave amunition shortage faces the Mexican Government. There are 1,000,000 rounds of cartridges left in the arsenal owing to the reckless use of amunition by the Federals. This would be insufficient to resist a concerted attack on the city. No more amunition can be secured unless it is taken from the Vera Cruz arsenal, which is already short. An amunition shipment from Europe is not expected for some time.

Five hundred Federal soldiers are reported to have deserted at Axcapichan, near the border of the States of Morelos and Puebla, joining the Zapatistas.

The Government to-day advertised the gambling privileges of Federal district for $50,000 and a share of the profits. This shows the dire financial straits of Huerta.

Shooting Results in Mexican Patrol.

PRESIDIO, TEXAS (By U. S. Army Phone via Marfa), Dec. 19.—In response to a stern warning against armed Mexican soldiers crossing the line, General Mercado, the Mexican Federal commander in Ojinaga, to-day sent word to Major McNamee, U. S. A., that a patrol would be established to prevent a recurrence of the shooting affray of yesterday when Luis Orozco, a Mexican Federal, was shot to death by an American soldier.

"I will personally take steps to see that the persons responsible for the shooting are punished," said General Mercado.

Orozco was known to the local authorities as a horse thief and cattle rustler, and had but recently joined the Federal force at Ojinaga.

Mutiny is reported to have broken out in General Salazar's command, which led to the withdrawal of his troops and the soldiers of General Orozco from Ojinaga.

Charity Work Drives Woman to End Life

KEOKUK, IOWA, Dec. 19.—Mrs. C. D. Streeter, a society woman, became mentally unbalanced following a nervous breakdown from overwork in charity and ended her life here by turning on the gas jets in her bedroom.

PRESIDENT'S CRITIC MAY LOSE POST

George F. Williams Called History Joke—Congress Wonders if Wilson Knew.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—A letter calling President Wilson's "History of the American People" a "joke," and declaring it "full of torism of the worst kind," may cost George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, the post of Minister to Greece.

This letter, which Williams wrote several years ago to former Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota, has reached the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, and Williams' nomination is being held up until the committee learns whether the President knew of the letter when he named Williams.

Displays Roll in Cafe; Loses $580

Police Friday were searching for a pickpocket who got a wallet containing $580 from R. R. Whitehead, a fruit-tree dealer of Kingston, Ga., on Thursday afternoon.

Whitehead had come to Atlanta to purchase some mules. He displayed his money in a downtown restaurant when he paid for his lunch by peeling a bill from the roll.

Suicide Takes Lawyer Wanted for Forgery

PEORIA, ILL., Dec. 19.—Attorney Henry I. Nowlan, of Peoria, counsel for several defendants in the iron workers' dynamite conspiracy, committed suicide to-day by throwing himself in front of a train in Galva, Ill.

A warrant for his arrest on the charge of forgery was issued here yesterday.

Inez Milholland Calls Militancy 'Vulgar'

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain received an enthusiastic welcome here when she addressed the Princeton Socialist Society.

The suffrage leader declared the English militant movement was not emotional, but highly strategic. She regretted the necessity of those "vulgar methods."

Lindsey Approves Children on Stage

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Children should be permitted to work on the stage under proper safeguards, Judge Ben R. Lindsey, of Denver, told the Drama Club, adding: "I have seen factory children who dislike the life, but I never saw a stage child who did not want to remain in the profession."

Polecat's Hide Stirs Whole Neighborhood

DALTON, Dec. 19.—Declaring that his household had been deprived of rest and sleep for 48 hours because one of his neighbors had killed a polecat and tacked the skin on his house to dry, Patrick Kelly called on the police.

The owner of the hide was forced to take it down and bury it.

Teachers See 'Farce' In Board's Agreement On Holiday Extension

What is regarded by the teachers of the Atlanta public schools as a "farical move" was the response of the Board of Education to the demand for additional holidays this Christmas. Monday and Tuesday were added as holidays, but two days will be added to the school term in the heat of June.

Friday is the last day of school until after the Christmas holidays, January 5, and 25,000 will immediately begin the celebration of Christmas. President W. R. Daley said that the two extra holidays practically meant a confiscation of $4,400 of school money.

After that remark, Mayor Woodward made a motion that the two days be added to the school term next June, and it was unanimously adopted.

'Diversify Crops,' Bulletin Will Urge

The next important bulletin soon to be issued by the Department of Agriculture will be on "crop diversification." The booklet has been compiled with much care, and is expected to prepare Georgia farmers for the boll weevil.

The satisfactory profit from various crops, now little grown in the State, is to be shown. Oats, wheat and corn will be featured, though the recent impetus given corn has raised it to prominence. Wheat, once grown extensively, is now almost entirely neglected.

To Announce Result Of Chamber Canvass

The result of the "whirlwind campaign" for Georgia Chamber of Commerce funds is to be announced at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Hotel. The workers started out to raise Atlanta's share of $50,000, amounting to $12,500. Of that sum $2,500 already had been subscribed, and it is expected that the remaining $10,000 will be reported at the luncheon.

The fund is to be devoted by the State Chamber to the interests of Georgia farmers, with special attention to the boll weevil.

Countess Treuberg Sentenced for Fraud

SPECIAL Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The trial of Countess Von Treuberg for various crimes ended in a sentence of fifteen months' imprisonment and a fine of $875.

The Countess was found guilty of fraud, blackmail and abetting usury. The court fined an absent witness, Princess Alexandra of Isenburg, $75 for refusing to give evidence.

Masked Feudists Burn Four Houses

SPRINGFIELD, MO., Dec. 19.—Fifteen masked men, said to have been feud enemies of the Collins family of Old Horton, an isolated village, burned four houses, belonging to members of that family.

Several of the Collins family were beaten and warned to leave.

Says Eugenics Would Depopulate the Earth

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Bird S. Coler, former Comptroller of the city of New York, told an audience of business men that if the science of eugenics were adopted generally the human race would be extinct in 50 years.

Forecast for Atlanta and Georgia—Fair and cooler Friday; fair Saturday.

RECORDER PLEDGES AID TO POLICE

Sweeping reforms in the methods of conducting the locker clubs and cabarets of Atlanta have been promised by Recorder Broyles, who has joined Chief Beavers in the warfare.

The Recorder impressed upon the police the necessity for continued activity against the clubs and amusement resorts, declaring there are many dives in Atlanta that should be abolished.

"We are depending upon the police to do it," he declared. "I will do my part if the police will arrest the men who run these places and bring them here. I will see that they are punished. A disorderly place is an abomination to a community, and one of the worst evils we encounter."

It is understood that Chief Beavers and Recorder Broyles will combine with the Grand Jury and aid that body in an investigation, which, it is said, will be undertaken.

Beavers Says He Has Evidence. It is probable that the Grand Jury investigation will be based on the recent activities of detectives and members of the vice squad, and the evidence which Chief Beavers says this man have obtained against the places.

Members of the Grand Jury refused Friday morning to discuss the proposed inquiry, and it is not known what methods the Grand Jury will pursue. At a meeting late Thursday the investigation was made the subject of extended discussion and suggestion, and the outcome of the agitation probably will be the appointment of a committee to visit the clubs and endeavor to determine whether there is sufficient violation of the law to warrant the indictment of the managers of the clubs.

Another secret meeting will be held Friday, and it is probable that some plan of conducting the investigation will be outlined.

Chief Beavers and Chief of Detectives Lanford have declared they will continue their espionage over the locker clubs and cabarets, and that every effort will be made to detect violations.

Seven Managers Face Charges. The test of strength between the police and the clubs will come at the trial of the seven managers who were arrested several days ago and against whom Chief Beavers and Chief Lanford declare that they have strong evidence, gathered by the detectives and the vice squad men.

Judge Broyles' entry into the field followed a raid by members of Chief Beavers' vice squad on a cabaret show at Broad and Walton streets and the arrest of B. E. Shirley, who claims to be a business man; Evelyn Gray, who says she is a saleswoman, and E. T. Howell, manager of the place. The Recorder fined Shirley and the Gray woman $25.75 each on charges of disorderly conduct, and held Howell to the higher courts in bonds of $500, charged with maintaining a disorderly house in a restaurant.

Judge Scores Cabarets. Prior to the sentencing of Miss Gray and Shirley, Judge Broyles delivered a lecture to them, warning them to stay away from such places and warning Howell that improper conduct at his place must cease. "I am not astonished that such places exist in our midst," said the Recorder, "but I am deeply grieved, more deeply grieved than words can tell. Our morals are being raised to a plane where such places are repulsive, and we can not suffer them to exist."

BIG TASK BEFORE OGLETHORPE WORKERS

Heavy Subscriptions Expected
Toward $40,000 Balance by Saturday Night.

Two days to raise $40,000! That's where the Oglethorpe fund campaign stands at present. That was the proposition confronting the workers Friday morning in view of their decision that the $250,000 should be announced in the newspapers next Sunday morning as "raised."

"This is the final, the critical stage of the work," Captain James W. English said Thursday. "This undertaking is one of deep significance to Atlanta and to the entire South, and every good citizen should recognize that fact and act accordingly."

Captain English, touching on the scope of the proposed university, said:

"It has been objected by some few persons that $200,000—which we will have as soon as this $250,000 is raised—will not be sufficient to found a university of national size and scope. We have not the slightest idea of stopping at the half-million mark. It is a reasonable belief that the assets of Oglethorpe will be increased to a million dollars within our day. And it is a fact that many of the great American universities, with millions of dollars of resources today, had their beginning in circumstances far more humble than those under which Oglethorpe is being founded."

Time to Write "Big History." And now is the time to write "big history," Captain English said. "Every subscription made before midnight Saturday will entitle the subscriber to be known as a true founder of Oglethorpe. Those who subscribe later, and after the quarter of a million mark is reached, will be helping, of course. But this is the hour when Oglethorpe is on trial."

Woman Died Here and Buried at Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 19.—The funeral of Mrs. Susan H. Hunt, wife of Ben P. Hunt, a prominent citizen of Huntsville, who died in the Grady Hospital in Atlanta where she had been under treatment for two weeks, was conducted here.

Mrs. Hunt was one of the leaders in the organization that maintained the Huntsville Hospital and was an untiring charity worker.

Well Now Supplies Gainesville Water

GAINESVILLE, FLA., Dec. 19.—Although the city has not accepted the new municipal water plant from the contractors, the water mains have been supplied by the new plant from the 350-foot well, furnishing 1,600 gallons per minute.

The change was made in order to remove the fire pump from the old waterworks to the new plant.

Fritzi Scheff Will Tell When in Love

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Fritzi Scheff flashed a laughing denial of the report that she was to become the wife of George Anderson, a former member of her theatrical company. "When I really fall in love I shall be delighted to let the public know it," she said, laughingly.

Deserter From Navy Gives Up to Police

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 19.—Albert M. Woltz, Jr., of Greensboro, N. C., walked into police station and declared himself deserter of United States Navy at the Norfolk navy yard. Woltz said that on sober after consideration he had decided to go back like a man and asked the police to notify the proper officials.

Police Seek Youth And Girl Who Took Auto for 'Joy Ride'

Police are searching for a young man with eyeglasses, a fur-lined overcoat and a derby hat, and a young woman in a blue hat, a gray suit and a crimson undershirt which peeps out from a slit skirt. They are supposed to have taken a touring car belonging to E. C. Rupley from in front of the Atlanta National Bank Building late Thursday and then returned it after "joy riding" for an hour and a half.

The theft of the automobile was noticed by a traffic policeman. He declared he saw the young man and the girl step into the automobile shortly after Rupley left it standing in front of the building, and that they drove slowly up Whitehall street, saluting him as they passed.

New Trial Motion For Mrs. Godbee Rests With Judge

AUGUSTA, Dec. 19.—Judge Henry C. Hammond, after hearing arguments on a motion asking for a new trial for Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, reserved his decision.

The State's attorneys answered the attacks of the defense on three jurors who were alleged to have been biased when they entered the jury box, and also the criticism of the court's charge to the jury. Affidavits by Foreman S. W. Palmer, of the Godbee jury, and Olin B. Brown, of A. Matthews and C. A. Boston, of Stellaville, denied that Palmer said Mrs. Godbee ought to hang, as E. S. Alexander had declared.

PROPER TANGO STEPS SHOWN BY MISS BAIN

Expert Lays Particular Emphasis on Grace and Precision of Each Movement.

There is tangoing and tangoing. This much Atlanta society has learned in the brief time that Miss Donna Bain has been giving exhibitions of the modern dance steps at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Dancing, of course, is not a diversion with Miss Bain. It is a profession. Consequently, it is not surprising that she glides and dips and floats about a ballroom floor with considerably more alacrity and grace than the mere amateur.

Young society women—and the young men as well—have been greatly impressed by the dances shown by Miss Bain. They have wondered that there could be so much difference in the tango as it commonly is danced at all of the society functions and as it is demonstrated by this young woman whose home was in Atlanta until six years ago, when she went to New York and then abroad to make a close study of the various dances of the world.

The tango, for example, Miss Bain dances with a rhythm and grace that takes away from her interpretation of it the suggestion of a calisthenic exercise or a drill that a studied precision ordinarily gives a dance step. Miss Bain is precise. There is no question about that. Those who sit at her feet to learn find that she insists upon doing it "just so." But while she is a stickler for the fundamental principles of the dance, she lays just as much emphasis on the grace that must accompany all of the dance movements.

That the combination of grace and precision works toward the best possible result, Miss Bain establishes quite convincingly by her own dancing. She will continue at the Piedmont Driving Club until December 27.

MONEY BILL TO WIN TO-DAY IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Administration leaders in the Senate to-day planned to hasten the passage of the currency bill and send it immediately to conference. It is expected that the bill will be passed early this afternoon.

Senator Owen and Representative Glass will head the Senate and House Conference Committees, respectively. Owing to the advance work done by currency leaders in Congress with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, a report by the Conference Committee may be made to-morrow. It is certain that it will be made not later than Monday.

An amended print of the measure was prepared for the use of the Senators, so that they may understand readily the changes made in the measure.

Deep Solemnity at Rampolla's Funeral

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. ROME, Dec. 19.—Solemn pageantry and expression of deep grief to-day attended the funeral of the late Cardinal Rampolla in St. Peter's Cathedral. The funeral eclipsed that of the late Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the Sacred College. Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, the Pope's confessor, gave absolution and a special Papal blessing had been sent for the repose of the dead.

Last Chance to Enter Night School at Tech

K. G. Mathewson, president Georgia Tech, announced Friday that Saturday will be the last date at which applications for enrollment in the free night school for the winter term will be received. The winter term began last week but it was decided to make a special arrangement to hold the application list open for one week longer, so that night school offers advantages to those who have not the money or time to attend the day school.

Electrician, Angered at Action of Aldermen in Turning Down Increase, Seeks Referendum.

City Electrician Turner is busy preparing to have the question of the increase in the salary of his office referred to the voters.

"I don't see what right a man like Alderman H. Kelley has to turn down a salary raise of an official elected by the people," said Turner. "He wasn't elected by the people, he was elected by Council."

The electrician was piqued by the vote of Aldermen Ragsdale, Kelley and Warren, which killed his raise. According to City Attorney Mayson, the salary of the office must be fixed the year before election by a charter provision.

Unless the electrician can get an election on the matter before the first of the year or have a special meeting of the City Council called and the matter reconsidered, there seems to be little chance for him to get the increase.

Hair Must Match Gown, Even if It's Purple or Green

Let your hair match your gown, which is different from matching the gown to your hair.

First, purple gown, purple hair; green gown, well, get a gown of that color if your locks naturally grow that way.

It's from Paris, but even there it's a bit extreme.

Moreover, it's not necessary to dye the hair every time the gown is changed.

Wigs are available. So are powders of all colors of the spectrum. Complexion powders, red, green, etc., go with the color scheme.

Trim Christmas Tree for 5,000,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The municipal Christmas tree for the 5,000,000 New Yorkers has been set up in Madison Square.

Electricians have begun trimming the tree and beneath its twinkling branches delegations from the city's choral societies will sing yuletide carols on Christmas Eve.

DOCTORS THANK ATLANTA FOR FINE TIME

Officers Named, and Asheville Is Next Meeting Place—Second Largest Crowd Here.

While many of the surgeons in attendance on the convention of the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association, left for their homes Thursday night, quite a few remained in Atlanta Friday to take in the interesting sights of the city.

With the adoption of resolutions of thanks to the local medical fraternity and Dr. Floyd McRae especially, and resolutions of appreciation for the courtesies extended them by Manager A. R. Keen, of the Georgian Terrace, the association concluded its twenty-sixth annual session late Thursday afternoon.

The election of officers consumed a good portion of the time earlier in the day, and the afternoon session was presided over by the new president, Dr. John Wesley Long, of Greensboro, N. C. The new head is one of the eight surviving original members.

Other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, Arthur Carroll Scott, Temple, Texas, and James F. Mitchell, Washington, D. C.; Secretary, W. D. Haggard, Nashville, Tenn.; Treasurer, LeGrand Guerry, Columbia, S. C.; Council, Stuart McGuire, Richmond, Va.; Bacon Saunders, Fort Worth, Texas; Rudolph Matas, New Orleans; J. M. T. Finney, Baltimore; John Young Brown, St. Louis.

Chairman of arrangements committee, Hubert A. Royter, Raleigh, N. C. Asheville, N. C., was named as the next place of meeting. The convention had the second largest attendance of any in its history, the 1909 meeting holding the record.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—In sympathy with the Liverpool market, the cotton market opened steady to-day, first prices being 2 up to 1 point lower than Thursday's final. There was very little snap to the market and trading was very light. The local crowd seemed inclined to sell. There was considerable selling of January and March. All in all, the majority of trading was swapping one position for another, evening up over Saturday's Census report.

After the call bears seized the opportunity to sell on the hard spots and prices broke sharply, showing a net decline of 4 to 12 points from the opening within fifteen minutes after the movement started.

General sentiment continues extremely bearish, but the majority predict an upturn before the closing figures are posted.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—There was a brisk demand for stocks at the opening of the stock market to-day and a few gains prevailed throughout the list. At the end of a half hour's trading Canadian Pacific was selling at 24 1/4, a gain of 3/4.

Western Union and American Telephone were higher, the pressure of the past few days arising from the Government ownership propaganda having disappeared. Western Union, which sold ex-dividend 1/2 to 1 per cent, opened at 60, against the close of 59 1/2 yesterday. American Telephone advanced 1/2 to 11 1/2.

The railroad group was strong. New York Central, which sold ex-dividend 1/2, opened at 91 1/2, while Reading and New Haven made gains of more than a point.

The annual report of Union Pacific infused strength in that issue, which began 1/4 up at 152 1/2. Among the other advances were Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel common, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Northern Pacific 1/4 and Lehigh Valley 1/2.

The curb market was steady. Americans in London advanced vigorously and Canadian Pacific rebounded because of its overseas condition.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Miller & Co. We still look for lower prices for the sale of May cotton. E. F. Hutton & Co. A more urgent demand from spinners will be required to bring in speculative activity on the long side.

Logan & Bryan. We favor the selling side during periods of strength.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Wheat opened steady with a fair volume of trade, but there was little pressure on the market. Due to the failure of Liverpool to reflect yesterday's decline here. Values rallied after a small recession early.

Corn was sold by commission houses early, but they turned to the buying side later, advancing prices to above the previous close. Prospects for colder and less favorable weather were the strengthening influences.

Oats held within a narrow range, prices holding close to the previous day's 60th. Provisions were quiet.

GRAIN NOTES.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Ralls in wheat said there has been no change in the general situation, but trade dullness was discouraging to the holders and this enabled bears to force the decline. Ralls in corn said after the close that the market has had all the decline it was entitled to, especially as a good percentage of the selling came from shorts."

CORNER ON EGGS NETS TWO MEN $80,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—James E. Wetz, the "egg king," to-day admitted that he had taken a clear profit of $80,000 out of the market since the present campaign against the high price of eggs began.

"And before I stop I shall take another $80,000," he said. "This is a winning year."

Wetz, together with Herbert A. Morin, controlled 175 carloads of eggs at the beginning of the season. These eggs were all of the cold storage variety. They were purchased in April, May and June at an average price of 17-1/2 cents a dozen. Those already sold have brought an average of 27 cents a dozen wholesale.

Wetz reported the receipt to-day of two telegrams from Winfield, Kans., offering 26-1/2 cents a dozen for eggs by the carload.

"Egg dealers never had anything work out to their ultimate benefit more than the present campaign," said Mr. Morin to-day.

Watch Barometer, Business Men Are Advised by Scott

BOSTON, Dec. 19.—Business men should conduct their affairs on the advice of the barometer, according to Dr. Colin R. Scott, professor of psychology in the Boston Normal School.

"When the barometer is high," says Dr. Scott, "pulses are high and there is activity everywhere. In April, May, June and July, when the pressure is low, there are more violent crimes, house breakings and murders. Also there are more suicides. This is because of the depression caused by the low pressure."

Dr. Scott's theory is that merchants should take advantage of the activity of the people to make their best offerings.

Council Rejects Bond Board's Men

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 19.—P. H. Odum, for city attorney; Max Myerson, for hack inspector; J. W. Ingram, for license inspector; H. C. Sloan, for electrical inspector; Thomas Cahill, for inspector and R. E. Merritt, for inspector weights and measures, all failed of confirmation, when their nominations were presented to city council.

The bond trustees must make new appointments, the present incumbents meanwhile holding over.

Fatal Gun Battle in Town Hall Building

BONNER SPRINGS, KANS., Dec. 19.—One man was killed and two others were wounded in a gun fight in the City Hall Building here to-day.

A posse had surrounded the building on the second floor of which Rolla Harvey was suspected of operating his boot-legging headquarters. In the battle Harvey was killed.

King for Remoulding Of House of Lords

SPECIAL Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Government is determined to continue with the reconstruction of the House of Lords immediately after Parliament reconvenes on February 3, according to a press service to-day. This press service "has learned from an authoritative source" that the King's speech opening Parliament will pledge the Government to proceed at once with this reform.

$15,000 SALOON TAX PROPOSED IN GRIFFIN

Church Folk Start Campaign for Prohibitive License—Dealers Now Pay $6,000.

GRIFFIN, Dec. 19.—If plans of the ministers and leading laymen of Griffin churches go through, Griffin will next year have the highest near-beer saloon license probably in the United States—$15,000 per year for the city, $200 for the State and county, and the usual Government beer tax.

A mass meeting, called by pastors of twenty churches and by Judge T. E. Patterson, State Prison Commissioner and husband of the Georgia W. C. T. U. president, representing a congregation temporarily without a pastor, was held at the City Hall last night, when the high license campaign was launched and steps taken to organize a Law Enforcement League to aid city, county and Federal officers in running down "wildcat" distilleries and "blind tigers."

The near-beer saloon license here this year is $6,000. Last year it was $8,000. There was one saloon last year and two this year. The proposed $15,000 tax is believed to be high enough to be prohibitive.

Officers have been active here in the last 30 days, eight or ten distilleries having been raided and between 20 and 30 blind tigers arrested.

Dinner to Adamson 'Most Remarkable,' Says W. H. Hillyer

William Hurd Hillyer, who, with Alfred C. Newell, was appointed to represent the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at the dinner given to Robert Adamson in New York on December 15, returned to Atlanta Thursday. Mr. Hillyer said the dinner was the most remarkable tribute ever paid to a native Georgian in the metropolis, and in some respects the most remarkable ever received by any citizen there.

"The dinner was entirely unofficial in character," said Mr. Hillyer. "It was the spontaneous utterance of a sentiment existing in the hearts of New York's best people. Seven hundred of her most prominent citizens, representing every political faith and all classes of business and professional life, volunteered to act as hosts on the occasion, in honor of the man whose brilliant and unselfish efforts had resulted in the triumph of the Fusion ticket at the recent election."

"The speeches were in excellent taste and reflected the high opinion in which Mr. Adamson is held. Georgia should be proud of Robert Adamson now that he has become, in the language of one of the speakers, 'Father Knickerbocker's fair-haired boy.'"

DETROIT, MICH., Dec. 19.—That their cases might be taken as an example for the prevention of future oleomargarine frauds, Judge Tuttle, in the United States Court, imposed heavy sentences and fines on four convicted of coloring oleomargarine. Walter Saelis received three years in the House of Correction and a fine of $5,000; Mrs. Saelis, six months and $2,000; Charles Johnson, 17 years, 18 months and $1,500; Harry McLaughlin, a deliveryman for the firm, six months and $500.

Soldiers Slip Up On Charleston Folk

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 19.—Stealing a march on Charleston, 325 Fort Moultrie artillerymen slipped across Ashley River from Yemassee and crossed to Sullivan's Island when very few people knowing the "army" had pierced the city.

The soldiers passed through here following maneuvers of a week. They marched back in half the going time.

CAREFULLY TREAT CHILDREN'S COLDS

Neglect of children's colds often lays the foundation of serious lung trouble in later life. On the other hand, it is harmful to continually dose delicate little stomachs with internal medicines or to keep the children always indoors. The ideal way to avoid colds is to keep plenty of fresh air in the bedroom and at the first sign of trouble apply Vick's "Vapo-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve over the throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled all night long, opening the air passages and healing the inflamed membrane. In addition Vick's is absorbed through the skin, taking out the soreness and tightness. Vick's contains no harmful drugs whatever. At druggists—25c, 50c and $1.00.

Beauty Secrets of Beautiful Women

Florence Moore Discusses the Wrinkle Problem

By MAUDE MILLER.

"We hear so much about beauty and what constitutes it. Whether the beautiful girl is the girl with perfect features or the girl who possesses a clean and healthy mind. But I maintain that no girl, no matter how perfect as to facial characteristics, no matter how pure as to mind and soul, can be beautiful if she does not express grace of movement and freedom to express this grace.

"Oh, I am heartily disgusted with all the absurd fads of fashion that we call our beautiful women." These were the exact words of Miss Florence Moore of the Winter Garden Company when I asked her for her ideas on beauty. "The extreme styles that are being worn by the ultra-fashionable set of to-day are spoiling the grace which ought to be the second nature to every sensible girl who expresses her ideas in her movements with the freedom and liberty of a young animal. But still this bugbear of society flourishes—the narrow skirt. Freedom has been given to some extent in the slashing of the skirt, in the introduction of invisible side pleatings, in cunningly devised draperies and other things from the clever brains of those who would make us fashionable. But the narrow skirt is still with us.

"If we would have proper lines we must have the narrow skirt, and the narrow skirt at the bottom, the more truly chic and remarkable for daring originality is our costume. The narrow skirt has come to stay. We hear the words on all sides, but let me tell you something else that is coming in the wake of the narrow skirt. Wrinkles. How can a woman maintain a happy expression when she is forced to mince along Fifth avenue in an expensive gown which will be irretrievably ruined if she happens to take one step a little longer than the ordinary artificial gait that she has been forced to adopt. And so there is constant worry, constant fear of accidents in which you would be powerless to help yourself, a constant deepening of ever so little of worry lines, which have come to stay, and which are developing into genuine wrinkles just as fast as they can.

"And now, perhaps, you defenders of the narrow skirt will say that it is possible to make anything habitual, why not the narrow skirt? Why should unnecessary energy be expended and therefore lowered vitality ensue? But the active girl is not necessarily energetic, she is not working off an attack of surplus nerves, she is simply naturally active and needs unlimited space to move about in, just as a flower needs the weeds removed about it before it can grow properly. Otherwise the sensitive temperament of the growing girl will find an outlet for its natural activity in some other way, and that other way always results in harm to the individual.

"Grace means everything to those who would attain beauty, and grace is a talent which is given to every one alike. It remains with the individual to develop that talent or to smother it in the dreadful folds of what fashion decrees. It is time for every girl to be awake and on her guard lest she be deprived of her liberty. Don't forget about the parable of the man with the ten talents, girls, you have the gift of grace within your grasp, you may have poetry of motion for the asking."

ing forever the grace which ought to be second nature to every sensible girl who expresses her ideas in her movements with the freedom and liberty of a young animal. But still this bugbear of society flourishes—the narrow skirt. Freedom has been given to some extent in the slashing of the skirt, in the introduction of invisible side pleatings, in cunningly devised draperies and other things from the clever brains of those who would make us fashionable. But the narrow skirt is still with us.

"If we would have proper lines we must have the narrow skirt, and the narrow skirt at the bottom, the more truly chic and remarkable for daring originality is our costume. The narrow skirt has come to stay. We hear the words on all sides, but let me tell you something else that is coming in the wake of the narrow skirt. Wrinkles. How can a woman maintain a happy expression when she is forced to mince along Fifth avenue in an expensive gown which will be irretrievably ruined if she happens to take one step a little longer than the ordinary artificial gait that she has been forced to adopt. And so there is constant worry, constant fear of accidents in which you would be powerless to help yourself, a constant deepening of ever so little of worry lines, which have come to stay, and which are developing into genuine wrinkles just as fast as they can.

"And now, perhaps, you defenders of the narrow skirt will say that it is possible to make anything habitual, why not the narrow skirt? Why should unnecessary energy be expended and therefore lowered vitality ensue? But the active girl is not necessarily energetic, she is not working off an attack of surplus nerves, she is simply naturally active and needs unlimited space to move about in, just as a flower needs the weeds removed about it before it can grow properly. Otherwise the sensitive temperament of the growing girl will find an outlet for its natural activity in some other way, and that other way always results in harm to the individual.

"Grace means everything to those who would attain beauty, and grace is a talent which is given to every one alike. It remains with the individual to develop that talent or to smother it in the dreadful folds of what fashion decrees. It is time for every girl to be awake and on her guard lest she be deprived of her liberty. Don't forget about the parable of the man with the ten talents, girls, you have the gift of grace within your grasp, you may have poetry of motion for the asking."

Up-to-Date Jokes

A traveling salesman died suddenly and was taken to his home. His relatives telephoned to the nearest florist, some miles distant, to make a wreath. The ribbon should be extra wide, with the inscription, "Rest in Peace," on both sides, and if there was room, "We shall meet in Heaven."

The florist was away, and his new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide and bore the inscription, "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in Heaven."

"It's a great pity," said the convicted burglar to his counsel, "that you couldn't have made that closing speech of yours at the opening of the case."

"I don't see how that would have improved matters," said the advocate. "It would, though," explained the client. "Then the jury would have been asleep when the evidence came on and I'd have stood some chance."

A Massachusetts minister was making his first visit to Kentucky several years ago. He had to spend the night in a small town, where feuds and moonshine stills abounded. Engaging in conversation with one of the natives, he said:

"My friend, this is a very bibulous State, I hear."

"Lor," replied the man, "there ain't 25 Bibles in all Kentucky."

A teacher in a certain town (we considerably decline to be more specific) had a great deal of trouble to make a boy in his class understand a point in his lesson. Finally, however, he succeeded, and, drawing a long breath, remarked:

"If it wasn't for me you would be the greatest donkey in this town."

"Oh, it is that the way you make them, Mary?"

"Sure an' Miss Peggy, how did you think you'd be makin' them?"

"Oh, out a hole out of the middle of each round thing, and fill it up with jelly, and bake it."

Mary interrupted with a burst of hilarious laughter, and as I patted and pinched the crust for the tarts, I decided that it must be harder to be a cook than a nurse.

"You put the jelly in afterwards," said Mary, as she shoved the pan into the oven. And I, full of pride that I was doing my first bit of baking for Dr. Hammond, who was coming down to dinner settled back in the big kitchen chair to wait for the tarts to bake.

Mary bustled around the kitchen in the most businesslike way, and I sighed and looked reflectively out through the glass door of the laundry.

It was raining, just the kind of a steady rain that made me long for the cool pink and white couch up in the den, and that book that had just come up from the library. I tugged absently at my apron, and then with my thoughts still far away I woke to the fact that Mary was speaking to me.

"Sure an' Miss Peggy, why don't you run upstairs and let me take care of the tarts? Who's to know the difference, child?"

But I said decidedly: "No, Mary, I must do it my own self. Next time I'll know just how it's all done, and Dr. Hammond just loves tarts."

The tinkle of the telephone, and I flew upstairs.

"Hello, yes, this is Miss Dean. O, Dr. Hammond? Yes, I'm very busy. I'm expecting company for dinner."

"You're not coming? Why? O, of course you can't in a case like that, but I'll be glad to go and get you, anyway? Yes, of course, I understand; don't you need me to help? I wish I could."

"Do you really? Well that helps."

some. Anyway, I needed you to help me cheer up. It's such a horrid day. Oh, yes, and we're going to have tarts for dinner. Yes, I know you'd be sorry. Next time? Well, maybe. You see I'm making them, and—

"Of course I can cook. Please don't jolly. Oh, no you won't, you'll be too busy to miss even the tarts."

"The tarts, perhaps, not you"—the words sang across the wire, and I sat down on the stairs in the dark and redoubled. He really did want to come. And the thought that he would miss me even in the rush of an accident case, and the deepening of his voice when he said those last words—my face burned, and I put my fingers up over my eyes and wondered what had come over me. Just then, I wanted to be a nurse more than anything else in the world, because I wanted to be where he was. Then I allowed myself to dwell upon the delights of being a hospital nurse. The fascinating smell of the place, the restlessness and rush of it all. And then as it all came back to me that afternoon when I had first met him, the shine of his hand under the electric light and the funny little impulse I had to rumple it up. I smiled and thought it a good thing that we women are thinking about Peggy dear, you are learning, every day you know a little more, and yet you're a little frightened, you might as well fess up. Things are so very, very strange, and you don't know yourself as well as you thought you did, do you?"

"Miss Peggy, Miss Peggy," came Mary's little voice from the kitchen, "your tarts are burnin' in the oven, you'd better be tendin' to them."

And I flew to the rescue. "It's all right to be a nurse, Peggy," I scolded severely as I pulled out the smoking pastry from the oven, "but it strikes me that you'd better learn to be a good cook first. But I felt a whole lot better when Mary, laughing at my dim-witted face, said god-naturally, 'Sure an' Miss Peggy, you never know your luck, next time you'll be havin' better luck with your tarts, too.' Mary is a natural born philosopher.

AT BAY A Thrilling Story of Society Blackmailers

(Novelized by)

(From the play by George Scarborough, now being presented at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater, New York. Serial rights held and copyrighted by International News Service.)

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

A LINE was leaning for support against the great library table—insensate wood aided her to stand, and the man who would willingly have supported the woman he loved—and so trusted—against all the world, must stand aloof and wait his Lady's pleasure.

"Won't you look that door?" asked the priest, breaking the throbbing silence.

"It has a spring lock, Father."

Then he turned to the girl, who drooped before him.

"Dear lady, you make me the proudest man in all the world."

And so Lawrence Holbrook offered this girl of a blasted life the finest devotion in all the world—for if "perfect love casteth out fear," is not the love that still must trust because it never sees the need of doubt, though doubt lies all about—is not such love the most perfect type that can be given woman?

The Warning.

"Don't waste a minute. Miss Graham has serious news for you, Captain," said the Father earnestly.

"THEY'RE COMING TO ARREST YOU."

The girl tried to strengthen herself to meet this new horror—the horror of having the man who loved her arrested—in her stead.

His reply was almost casual. "My dear lady, Father Shannon will tell you that an arrest of a fishman reads as a form of compliment."

Aline went on with grim purpose, nursing her.

"A MAN HAS BEEN KILLED TO-NIGHT, CAPTAIN HOLBROOK!"

Could the girl find strength to say more than this? Can a loving woman say to a man she must deny. "Your goddess is no goddess after all—she is a murderer!" If a woman must deny herself the glory of a true man's devotion, she can find the greatest courage to shatter that devotion?

"I saw the body," said the Captain simply.

"Judson Flagg," shuddered Aline.

"The same."

"Our door-bell rang—it startled me—I was up and awake—and I looked over the banisters—Chief Dempster to see my father—in the hall he spoke your name."

The girl's frail body swayed—her strength was failing her purpose.

"Take it gently—and sit down, my dear, Father, need she torture herself more?"

"Hear her out, Captain," replied the Father in a firm tone.

"I went downstairs and listened at the door as they talked in the library—the chief phoned police headquarters—the railway stations were to be watched—you were to be arrested yourself. Oh, Captain, a kind of panic seized me.... all in a moment I was dressed.... there was only one person I could think of to help me out—to help YOU—I went out of the back door—and over to him."

"To keep me from being arrested?" asked the Captain tenderly. Why, she had been thinking of him, even while he had been working for her!

A Line Tells All.

"Twas her first and last thought. Tell him all the story, daughter," said the man of God, very gently.

"ALL?" quavered Aline.

The father nodded.

"Just as you told it to me."

Just a few hours before the girl had laughed easily at her lover. "I love told you that I do not love you! You're a quaint soul, Captain." In her hour of tragedy she could not lie to her own soul—she did love this man—love him with all the forbidden glory of her wounded heart, and her own deed had made that love a thing to be denied—and her crown of martyrdom was that she must tell him all—her sad story.

She looked at her captain with half parted lips—and all her soul yearning to waltz his message from her eyes. And then she moaned at the hurt of it all: "Oh, must I tell?"

"Not a word—unless you want to," expostulated the captain.

The father spoke in encouragement: "I know him, my dear! It's best to tell him."

Aline moistened her dry lips. When the lips have a dreared office of speech to perform, blood of life and color flows from them and the motive power for all-revealing words threatens to fall. She tried to control herself. "I—"

"My dear girl," protested the captain. How shall a man endure while the woman he loves is made to torture herself?

The girl sank into a chair and gazed hopelessly into the future she had prepared for herself.

Time and the tides of life seemed held in the moment from the flood to ebb. Aline prepared to see even the gift of forbidden love go out from her life.

Perhaps it was only a second before she spoke—but her soul grew to womanhood in that flash across the face of eternity.

"I killed him," breathed Aline Graham.

For a moment she sank forward against the table. Then she rose and uttered to Father Shannon, and holding out her hands to him stood with bowed head waiting the verdict.

In haste—as if defending her from her very priest, Larry Holbrook voiced his ultimate faith and trust.

"She defended herself. Why, Aline, don't let it drive the color from your cheeks—"

Aimed beyond all human believing, Aline came back toward Holbrook and gazed up at his strong, tender face.

"And they think YOU did it?"

Larry waved it away as if this were the merest trifle.

"Oh, no, they don't think that—but they think—I KNOW."

"And you did know?" The Father spoke the words in slow wonder at the beauty of soul he was seeing ever more strongly revealed in the buoyant nature of the lad—of almost forty—the lad he loved!

Very tenderly the man spoke to the girl: "YES—I KNEW!"

Scorched by the sirocco winds of her own shame, the girl blanched to even greater weakness and pain.

"You—despise me—" Her voice held agony.

"I—LOVE YOU," answered her "knight without fear and without reproach," tenderly.

A glazed look of horrified recollection came over the girl's eyes. She lived her pitiful defense aloud.

"I never meant to kill him.... He took hold of my arms.... I got one hand free and struck him.... My blow had no effect.... There was something in my hand—a paper file—like a big hat pin—his hand on my throat!.... I struck again!.... I couldn't see.... I don't know what happened, but he was lying in a chair pulling the paper file from his breast!"

Her hands battled up to hide her horrified eyes from that vision of terror.

"Aline—Aline—you are torturing your own heart," cried Holbrook.

The girl turned to the priest for strength. "Go on, my daughter," he said with infinite tenderness in his tone.

"THEN HE GOT UP—I LOOKED BACK—HE HAD FALLEN ACROSS HIS DESK—HE CALLED FOR HELP—I DIDN'T KNOW I HAD HURT HIM—BADLY—I DIDN'T EVEN KNOW THAT—UNTIL I HEARD CHIEF DEMPSTER PHONING FATHER...."

"The Chief phoned first? Before he came?" questioned Holbrook, ever alert for anything that might mean a chance for the girl so hopelessly enmeshed in the spider's web. The spider had been destroyed—but the siltken meshes of his gray web remained.

For the Man She Loved.

The girl nodded dreadingly.

"That's why I dressed, I thought they were coming to take me—I lived over and over again the disgrace of it—if there had been anything to take—I'd have killed myself—too!" I dressed, and crept down again—and listened at the doors in my father's house—and then I heard—it was you in danger!"

"You said nothing at all to your father?" asked the Captain. So much depended on this!

"No!"

"Poor child—" he said in pain at thought of all she had endured—his tenderly nurtured, tortured little lady!

"The your words came into my mind," went on Aline.

"What words, my dear?"

"Of Father Shannon—this afternoon. Tell him everything. All you've told me and all you haven't told—tell Father Shannon!"

"Twas the one thing to do."

The girl fled to the refuge of the priest's strong clasp.

"He will go through all of it with me—the jail—the disgrace."

And now her strength deserted her—like a reed in a bitter wind from the north she swayed, racked by the chill blast of her own straining emotions.

A murder trial—a scandal in high places—and Aline Graham, daughter of the District Attorney of the United States—a prisoner at the bar.... her name.... her father's clean name dragged in the filthy mire of all the basest human interpretations of her bitter blundering.... and love forever dead and cold to her.... outcast homeless.... a human blood on her hands.... so ran her agonized thought.

The Captain's tone held all the quiet certainty and soothing balm his strength could impart to words.

"There will be no disgrace. Cry it all out on the Father's breast.... and do you think he'd be holding you so tenderly if you were what you think—instead of what we know?" His voice deepened to the tenderness he would have expressed a thousand-fold if he could have held the sobbing girl in his own strong arms. "Aline—Aline, you're breaking all our hearts by your cruelty to your own self. Why, then, lady?"

"But you must not be falsely accused for my crime," cried the girl.

"There's no crime about it," declared the Captain rashly.

"Tell us what's to be done, Captain," said Father Shannon.

The soldier spoke with military briskness. This case demanded more of mind and less of heart if they who loved her would find a way of escape for the girl who was struggling in the mazes of danger.

"Did any one see you leave the house?"

"No one," answered Aline.

"Go back and be quiet," said the Captain.

"To-night they'll arrest you—and to-morrow they'll come for me, too," cried the girl.

"Perhaps they won't," said the Captain, casting about in his mind for a way to make this possibility certain.

"Yes, there was a brooch—a clasp for me. I tried to get it, but he had it."

"Your mother's brooch—the emerald?"

"Yes," moaned the girl, sinking into the chair at the head of the massive walnut table.

Holbrook came and stood near her. He wanted to touch her to reassure her—not with a man's overwhelming passion, but with the tenderness all father and stern reality too great for his untired strength. But he only held out his hand with the pin in his palm.

"I thought you'd want it," he said, in a matter-of-fact tone.

Aline looked at the worker of miracles. "You wonderful friend," she said.

Then she turned in bewilderment to Father Shannon, with her mother's jewel in her hand.

"Is it very wicked to think of escape—to think of keeping silent?"

What Dame Fashion Is Offering

Attractive Styles Described by Olivette

THIS disregard of all waistlines in this afternoon frock, on the right, is its greatest charm. It is made of rose-pink and vanilla satin. The bodice, of rose-pink material, is made with a bloused-bolero effect, with a three-quarter sleeve slightly draped and trimmed at the elbow with a small buckle of vanilla satin.

A broad plait edges the decollete, which is knotted in the middle front by two small points. The crossed yoke is of plain white net. A tulle of vanilla satin is slightly draped on the right side with three small plaits. The skirt is very plain, fashioned after the rounded skirt. It is made of rose-colored silk muslin, machine-plaited, and finished at the hem with a narrow silk fringe.—OLIVETTE.

Do You Know That—

The French police have arrested an old thief, known as "Father Noël," who never entered a tobaccoist's shop without taking at least twenty cigars. He stole daily an average of 300 cigars of the best quality, and a woman who worked with him put them into boxes and sold them to restaurant keepers at a greatly reduced price.

EVANS PRAISES
BIG SOUTHERN
GOLF OFFICIAL

H. F. Smith, of Nashville, Given Credit for Rapid Growth of the Game in Dixie.

By Chick Evans.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Long articles are constantly being written concerning the brilliant deeds of our greatest golfers, but a few lines are usually considered sufficient for the acts of the officials who provide the scene and the setting for all the spectacular golf that is played. To the successful formation of golf associations and the carrying through of tournaments are devoted the executive ability and untiring devotion of many men; often they are men of large affairs who give freely their time and knowledge for the benefit of the younger men.

Conspicuous among men of this class is H. F. Smith, of Nashville, president of the Southern Golf Association, and one of the directors of the W. G. A. Mr. Smith has been largely responsible for the building up of the S. G. A., of which he has been continuously president since 1904, and for the widespread interest and constant increase in golf playing throughout the Southern States.

In no part of the country is interest in golf growing more rapidly than in the South. This is the more remarkable because golf playing was general in the East and Middle West long before it was taken up in the South. Yet it is interesting to know in this connection that a golf club with officers and clubhouse existed at Charleston, S. C., as early as October, 1794. I do not know how long this lasted or how complete the gap between this club and these later ones of which we know, but for many years there were few golf clubs and but little interest in the game in the South.

When Mr. Smith became president of the S. G. A. it was a very small organization compared with the mammoth association of to-day, and the association is so convinced that Mr. Smith is indispensable that it will not permit him to resign.

Mr. Smith is also president of the Tennessee Golf Association, a flourishing little organization, and of the new Nashville Golf and Country Club that is planning a beautiful course on the historic Belle Meade Farm. But Mr. Smith's labors for golf have not been confined to the Southern States; for years he served on the directorate of the W. G. A., was vice president several years and in 1910 he was elected president to succeed C. F. Thompson. His administration was one of the most successful in the history of the organization. For 1914 he will continue to serve the W. G. A. as director.

Mr. Smith plays a very good game of golf himself, although he learned it rather late in life. Some years ago he won the championship of the National Freight Traffic Men's Association.

Atlanta Favorite Has Hopes of Stopping Former Champion
With Famous Left.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Dec. 19.—Boxing fans all over the country await with interest the outcome of to-night's ten-round bout between Ad Wolgast, claimant of the 132-pound championship of the world, and Charlie White, the Chicago whirlwind, in Frank Mulken's boxing arena.

Ever since Ritchie lifted the lightweight limit to 135 pounds Ad has claimed his old honors. He is backed by several experts in this country, who think it will not be very much longer before Ritchie will be forced to join Packey McFarland and fight at a higher weight.

Although Wolgast rules a 10 to 7 favorite over White, many are expecting Charlie to spring the surprise of the year and stop Ad. White has long been noted for the punch he carries in his left hand, and he has promised to uncork it several times tonight.

Outside of his recent bout with Dundee, when some of the critics gave Johnny a shade, White has rolled up a remarkable record this year. He has had eighteen fights and has won fourteen of them over the K. O. route. Joe Thomas, "Kid" Kansas, John Abel, Mickey Sheridan, Oscar Williams, George Meyers and Tommy Brumman are some of the boys who were handed the sleep producer.

Should White succeed in trimming Wolgast, he will meet Johnny Dundee in a return engagement here. Dundee and White have met twice and each holds a victory. Promoter Mulken has promised to bring Dundee here for the bout if White wins.

On the other hand, should Wolgast trim the Chicago boy, Ad says he will go East for a ten-round bout in New York, after which he will take a trip to the Coast and make another attempt to force Willie Ritchie into another match with him.

Both boys have worked hard for the fray and appear to be on edge for the fight of their lives. They have agreed to weigh 133 pounds at 3 o'clock, the real lightweight limit.

HEAVYWEIGHTS FIGHT MONDAY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Billy Gibson, local promoter, expects a big crowd to attend his two heavy weight bouts Monday night. Gibson has billed Jim Flynn to meet George Rodol in one ten-round battle, while Battling Levinsky, Danny Morgan's latest sensation, will take on Jim Coffey over the same route.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 19.—Charles Herzog, former member of the New York and Boston (National League) clubs, will be manager of the Cincinnati team for the season of 1914. After a conference with the board of directors and a second conference with President August Hermann and Secretary Harry Stephens last night, Herzog signed a contract as a player for a year, and then was officially made manager.

Herzog steps into the position made vacant by the sale of former Manager Joe Tinker to the Brooklyn club. He will play at shortstop, as did Tinker, and guide the team on the field. Herzog outlined his ideas of a winning team to the board of directors and they were approved.

Herzog is 25 and was born in Baltimore. He is a graduate of Maryland University, and after a short minor league experience was signed by Manager McGraw for the New York team, with which he played in 1908 and 1909. He was traded to the Boston (National League) team and played with that club through the season of 1910 and about half of the season of 1911, when he was brought back to New York by a deal made for him by McGraw.

The New York leader recently made a trade for him with Cincinnati, which the New York club gave Herzog and Catcher Hartley for Outfielder Bob Bescher.

Georgia Basket Ball
Team Plans Games

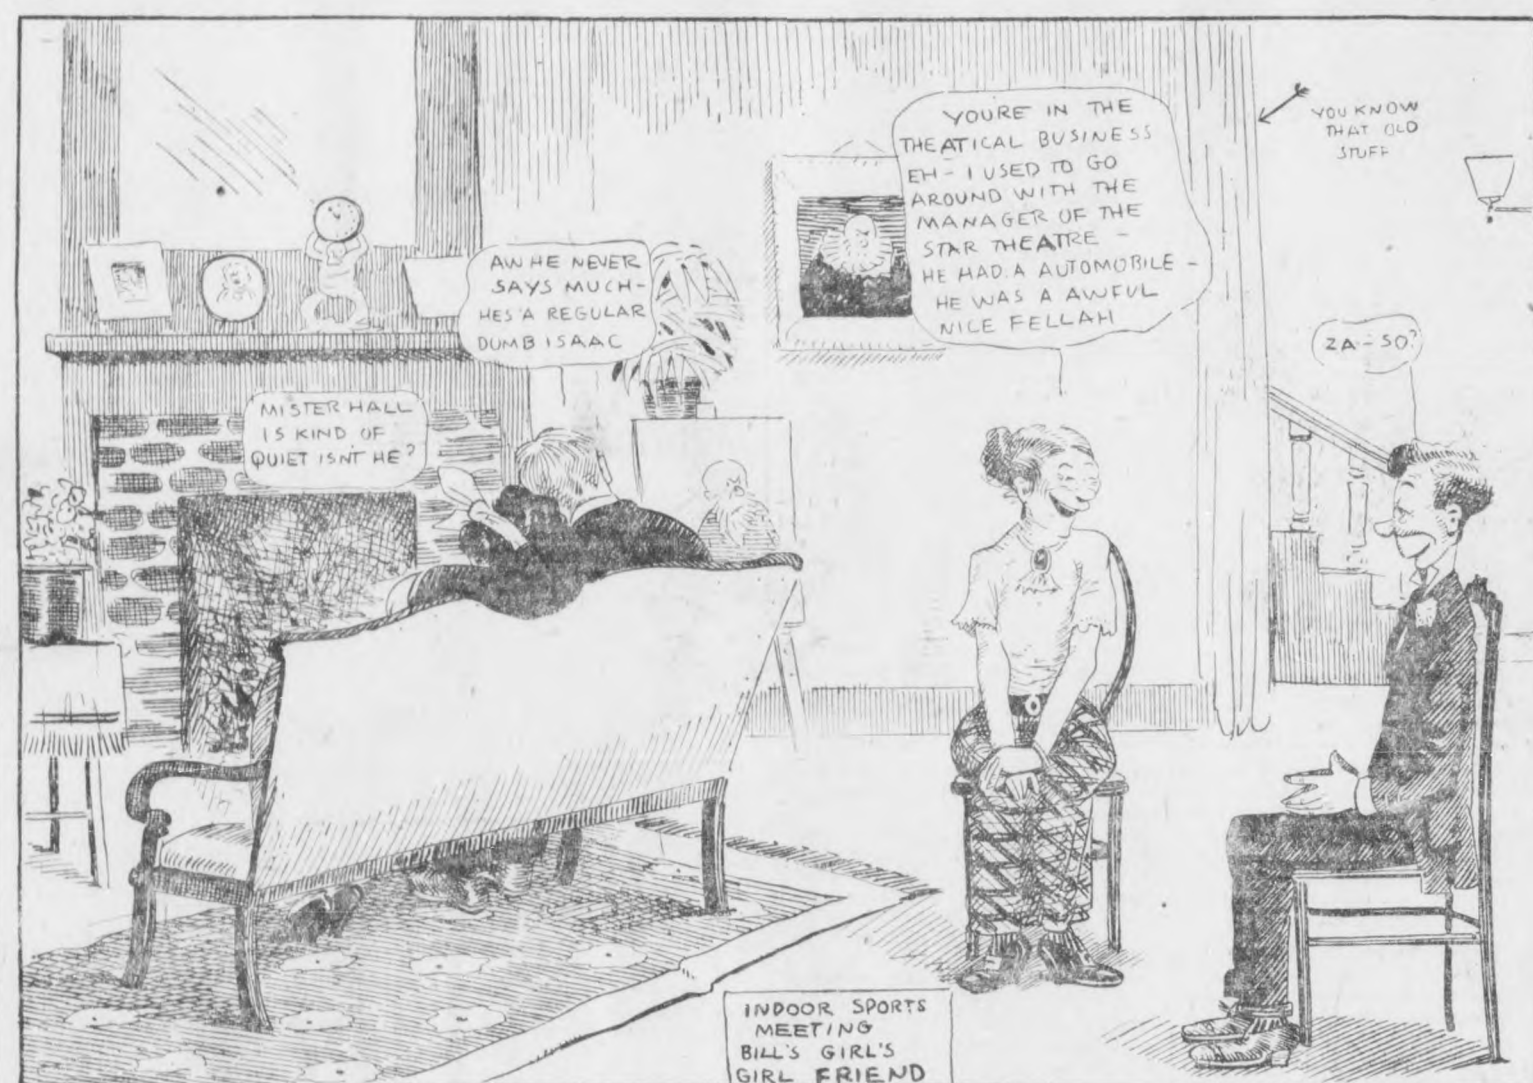

ATHENS, GA., Dec. 19.—Manager Tom Brand, of the university basket ball five, has planned a fine schedule for the Georgia five. The first intercollegiate game is to be here January 16, when Auburn comes to Athens for a game. Two trips are arranged tentatively—one through the Carolinas and one to Augusta and Savannah.

They will play games with Vanderbilt, Tech and other S. I. A. A. fives also. Coach Howell Peacock has Brand, Carter, Pascoe, Crump, Lester, Rawson, Corley, Von Sprecken, Brown and Rothchild working out for the team.

Herzog is 25 and was born in Baltimore. He is a graduate of Maryland University, and after a short minor league experience was signed by Manager McGraw for the New York team, with which he played in 1908 and 1909. He was traded to the Boston (National League) team and played with that club through the season of 1910 and about half of the season of 1911, when he was brought back to New York by a deal made for him by McGraw.

The New York leader recently made a trade for him with Cincinnati, which the New York club gave Herzog and Catcher Hartley for Outfielder Bob Bescher.

Georgia Basket Ball
Team Plans Games

ATHENS, GA., Dec. 19.—Manager Tom Brand, of the university basket ball five, has planned a fine schedule for the Georgia five. The first intercollegiate game is to be here January 16, when Auburn comes to Athens for a game. Two trips are arranged tentatively—one through the Carolinas and one to Augusta and Savannah.

They will play games with Vanderbilt, Tech and other S. I. A. A. fives also. Coach Howell Peacock has Brand, Carter, Pascoe, Crump, Lester, Rawson, Corley, Von Sprecken, Brown and Rothchild working out for the team.

WORRY.

"I am worried," spoke Joe Tinker as he read the sport page this morn'g.

"For this talk about ten thousand bones has troubled me full sore, I will get ten thousand shekels of the price they paid for me."

"If I sign to play in Brooklyn for across the bounding sea."

"But if Hermann amputates himself from that amount of dough."

"I am fearfullest the poor old gent will not survive the blow."

While Mr. Tinker undoubtedly is gratified to read that he is about to be handed $10,000, he is also aware that it is practically impossible to pay the rent with conversational money.

"My hands are tied," quoth Mr. Murphy, who evidently has learned to run the typewriter with his feet.

As we understand it, Cap Anson's pension from the National League will be a more or less pleasant smile.

The N. L. magnates would be perfectly willing to pension Mr. Anson if it could be done without going to any expense.

One Female Foe Is Bad Enough, but Two...

Walsh Brothers Sign Contracts

Here's One on Larry McLean

By O. B. Keeler.

WHATEVER may happen to the rest of the rather lengthy roll of Cracker athletes for the team of 1914, the Walsh brothers are hooked.

Their contracts were received Thursday afternoon by President Callaway.

There still is some doubt around headquarters as to the division of labor by the pair. Their names are Edward M. and James E., but which is the catcher and which the infielder nobody seems positive, not even Billy Smith.

COUNT CASTRO, the celebrated orator and suds-passer, is claiming a good deal of credit for the hooking of the Walsh family.

"It's better to claim the credit before the practice season," said the Count, sagely. "Then, if they make good, you can say, 'I told you so,' and if they don't pan out, why, most folks will have forgotten by that time who tipped the club off to 'em."

As a matter of fact, it was Mike Donohue who slipped Castro the hunch, under the impression that the Count was going to operate a Virginia League club in the coming season.

"Mike says they're a great pair," said Lou. "They're kids, just 20 and 21 years old, I understand. And Mike says they are comers—young and ambitious and full of the old pep. Charley Grapevine thinks a lot of 'em. And those two birds are pretty wise when it comes to spotting a ball player."

So Lou, feeling kindly disposed to the Atlanta club—it was before he signed with Chattanooga—and not having any use at that moment for the Messrs. Walsh, told Bill Smith about the brothers, and Billy decided to take a chance.

"I MET one of the boys while I was up East," is Bill's testimony. "I didn't see him working, but I talked to him, and he looks like a regular ball player—and talks like one. Of course, I haven't any confidence in this fellow Castro, you know. He's played ball for me—that is, he drew a salary from the club, which he transferred in the way of fines to the president of the league. But he's a pretty good sort, and some folks think he knows a ball player when he sees one. Lou thinks so, for instance."

HERE'S a Stove League yarn about Long Larry McLean, the celebrated ex-bonded warehouse.

It's an old one, dating back to the first year of the White Hope craze, at which time Larry was a member of the Seattle ball club, out on the Coast.

Being several inches better than six feet long, and husky in proportion, McLean was exploited by a Seattle writer as a likely White Hope, and some pictures were published of him in boxing poses.

THE idea caught on, and, not to be outdone, a Portland sport writer began to tout Tuba Vickers, a big chap, formerly a pitcher for the Athletics.

Jimmy Hughes, the exploiter of McLean, was justly indignant.

"That guy's stealing your stuff," he told Larry. "What do you think of it?"

"It's the limit," Larry agreed. "Well, now, here's what you do," said Larry's friend. "You just call his bluff. Portland plays here Friday. You get a set of boxing gloves, call Vickers into the clubhouse, put on one pair and throw the others down in front of him, and dare him to put 'em on. How do you like that idea?"

"Fine," said Larry, "but suppose the blamed cuss puts 'em on?"

MEMPHIS, TENN., Dec. 19.—The University of Mississippi football team, just reinstated into the good graces of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, is endeavoring to arrange a football schedule for next fall.

One of the moves of the management of that team is to try to stage a game with Sewanee here in October. If the Tigers will not accept the game Arkansas will probably be taken on by Ole Miss.

Tinker's Christmas Should Be Merry--He May Not Have to Go to Brooklyn

GEORGIAN SPORTS COVERED by EXPERTS

EBBETS STILL INSISTS TINKER BELONGS TO HIM

Mediation of National League's New President May Be Necessary to Avert Row.

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—One of the first official acts of President Tener, of the National League, may be to settle the dispute between the Cincinnati and Brooklyn baseball clubs over the possession of Joe Tinker, whose transfer to the Dodgers was blocked after he had been sold by President August Herrmann.

Ebbets' position in baseball law is strong, and the roar he is making over the stopping of the deal is waking unpleasant echoes in the baseball world, at a time when it most needs quiet.

Ebbets does not intend to let Cincinnati back out of the sale, and will ask the man higher up to decide the matter, or appeal to the National Commission.

The deal was made by the Brooklyn club in good faith," said Ebbets today. "We offered $25,000 for Tinker, and this offer was accepted by President Herrmann in behalf of the Cincinnati club."

Trade Should Stand. "President Herrmann, like every other president in the National League, is fully authorized to make trades, sales, and purchase players, and under baseball law the trade will stand."

"As to the Cincinnati suggestion that we give up Yngling or Ragon and Stengel or Moran, the deal was made without any such condition, and a condition of that sort can not be added now. It is not in my power to give up any of these players, and it is not within the privilege of the Cincinnati club to insist on any claim on any of them."

Herrmann Accredited Agent. "Herrmann, as president of the Cincinnati club, had the same right to make the deal for his club as I did for Brooklyn. Tinker is the property of the Brooklyn club at this moment, and if Joe decides to play next season he will wear a Brooklyn uniform. I know that we will have no trouble in making his berth with the team a pleasant one and that he will be perfectly satisfied."

"We have nothing to do with the action of the Cincinnati club directors for I did business with Herrmann as president of the club, who has the legal right to trade Tinker. Having announced Tinker's acquisition to the Brooklyn fans, I do not propose to be made the laughing stock of the baseball world."

"I consider Tinker as much a member of the club as Daubert, Wheat, Rucker or Robinson. The contract drawn up between Mr. Herrmann and myself is just as binding on one club as the other. Do you suppose the Brooklyn club, having agreed to pay $25,000 for Tinker, would be permitted to back out by the Cincinnati directors if we decided, after consideration, that the price was too high for the shortstop?"

"The Cincinnati directors would bind us to the agreement which I signed with Herrmann and which was witnessed by Barney Dreyfuss, of the Braves, and George Kerr, and I will hold the Cincinnati club to their agreement."

Cobb Turns Inventor; No Sting in Ty's Bat

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Ty Cobb has turned inventor. The slugging outfielder of the Detroit Tigers has made a bat which will do away with the sting--not that which is brought upon the pitcher when Ty peels off a base hit, but the sting which goes through the batter's hands when the bat and ball meet.

Cobb's new bat has a thin layer of cork at the handle. This prevents the bat from slipping and if successful will do away with the present method of winding tape.

Should Ty's invention increase his batting efficiency there will be much mourning among American League pitchers next season.

Big Trades Add Interest to Race

Brooklyn Fans Look for Flag

By Sam Crane.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The sweeping changes made in managers and the line-ups of so many National League teams will mean much additional interest to the championship race of the present baseball organization, and speculation will be rife from now on to the start of the championship season.

While the magnates are not prone to hand out news during their annual meetings, still they are very well aware that all the newspaper publicity their league gets during the winter months adds very largely to the gate receipts in the spring, and the club owners at their meeting recently closed played their points for the publicity end with exceeding shrewdness, even if it was not intended.

Charlie Murphy, of Chicago, himself, who is possibly the best publicity promoter in baseball, could not have done it better, and although Charley was not on hand more than a day or so, he can be depended on to get into the spotlight from now on. I look for him to launch forth more twopenny statements from the Windy City than he has heretofore been famous for.

Murphy feels loss of Tinker. Murphy will have more than usual to work on, too, for without doubt the sale of Joe Tinker to Brooklyn was as much of a surprise as a disappointment to the Continental tourist, and if he does not consider it a throw-down then he has changed in disposition to a surprising, if not sad, degree. So we can expect with confident assurance that many things redone will emanate from the headquarters of the Chicago Cubs.

Over in Brooklyn the supporters of the home club are more than enthusiastic over the securing of Tinker—they are crazy with delight and anticipation of the Superbas finishing in the first division. In fact, the more enthusiastic are counting on a pennant, and are already making bets that way—as they were last spring, when the home team was only one game behind the Phillies for first place.

Well, the more of that kind of faith the merrier, for it is a guarantee that there will be more "big business" between the Giants and Superbas, and when there is a baseball boom in Greater New York, the whole country

ONLY A NAME. The New York club was not in a position to promote many deals, owing to McGraw's absence, but the one trade it did make—Herzog and Hartley for Bescher—looks uncommonly sweet and ought to strengthen the team in what McGraw demands—speed. Bescher was handicapped last season by a bad leg that prevented him from being at his best in his strongest point—base stealing, but he says he will be as good as ever next season, and if that is so the Giants will find him a thoroughly valuable man and a winning one. There may be other deals made when McGraw returns from his long trip.

Providence President Foster was in a frame of mind to go beyond the instructions left by McGraw before his departure, which goes to show that McGraw still has full charge of the Giants, the authority being made absolute when he signed a new contract with the club last January at an increased salary.

Than heretofore.

If Mr. Ebbets is not careful, Tinker will double cross him and accept his terms. Then that $25,000 might never return.

The University of Pennsylvania is going in for cricket, having apparently abandoned hope of doing much in football and baseball.

The National League has certainly prepared a nice little housewarming for President Tener.

If you listen closely you will hear a harsh, cacophonous sound which is the sardonic laughter of the last president, Mr. Lynch—who spoke of "dignity" in his swan song.

UHLAN—World's Greatest Trotter

BILLINGS' trotting gelding, Uhlan, made historic the 1911 meet at Cleveland, when, on August 11, he lowered the world's record held from 1906 by Major Delmar, by covering the half-mile to wagon in 56 3/4 seconds. This clipped 3 3/4 seconds off Major Delmar's mark.

Uhlan's new record is not only the world's trotting record to wagon, but even faster than Major Delmar's record of 59 1/4 seconds to sulky and only a quarter of a second slower than Dan Patch's paced half-mile to sulky behind a wind shield.

Government Ownership of Telephones and Telegraphs Desirable and Inevitable

Eight years ago almost to a day, Representative William Randolph Hearst introduced in the Fifty-ninth Congress "A bill to enable the United States to acquire, maintain and operate electric telegraphs," etc. The bill very carefully provided a specific method of fair, legal purchase of "any or all existing lines," and their operation for the benefit of the people as the postoffice is.

Rates were to be adjusted to provide a reasonable profit to pay off the government bonds issued at popular subscription to buy the telegraph or telephone systems.

A stand-pat Republican Congress regarded Mr. Hearst's bill as dangerous, if not revolutionary.

It was neither dangerous nor revolutionary, nor impracticable, but only NEW—like the Panama Canal, election of United States Senators by direct primaries, income tax, and so many other things that Mr. Hearst advocated long in advance of their realization.

Mr. Hearst's bill of EIGHT YEARS AGO was reintroduced in substance in the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses.

TWO YEARS AGO, Postmaster General Hitchcock, a Republican, recommended it in a report to President Taft and to Congress.

TO-DAY a Democratic Postmaster General makes the recommendation the principal feature of his annual report.

President Wilson approves it in principle, although he has not passed on any bill in detail.

Representative Lewis, of Maryland, to whose energy and persistency we owe the parcel post law, is at work on the bill for early presentation to Congress. It will first be submitted to the Democratic caucus.

WHETHER APPROVED THIS WINTER OR NOT, IT IS SURE TO BECOME LAW.

The telegraph, the telephone, the mail, owned by the government, all operated together, united in one system.

The United States has thus talked government ownership for eight years, but England has—since Mr. Hearst's bill was introduced in Congress—actually accomplished it. The method adopted was substantially that suggested in the Hearst bill. The Government of Great Britain took possession of all the telephones last year.

Competition is impossible between telephone companies. There is no more excuse for two telephone or two telegraph companies in the same place than for two postoffices side by side. Duplication of offices is wasteful. The telephone now reaches more remote and more numerous places than the telegraph. The postoffice is even more universal. Every postoffice can be the communicating nerve center of every community—with the choice always at hand of the slow mails, the quicker telegraph or the telephone capable of annihilating both time and space.

This combination is inevitable. Its realization is much more difficult now than it would have been when Mr. Hearst first advocated it, because much more expensive. Representative Lewis estimates the cost at NINE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS. Where will the money come from? All the money centers of the world could not furnish so great a sum at the present juncture, even for the richest nation of the earth.

The development of the telephone has been pushed in the past decade by men of great genius who have spent more than $500,000,000, and made it as easy for the New York business man to sit at his desk and talk to Chicago, Kansas City, or Denver, 2,000 miles away, as to the man in the next room.

The chief telephone system now has 50,036 stockholders, and the stocks and bonds outstanding amount to $637,590,278. The independent telephone companies not identified with the American Telegraph and Telephone have stocks and bonds amounting to $322,965,588 more, according to the Census figures. The total, $1,010,555,836, of the telephone securities alone (excluding all telegraph lines) exceed the total present bonded debt of the United States, which on December 1 was $966,323,490.

The rate charged for telephones in New York City ($48 minimum for private house or office) is more than in London (£6 or $30), but is LESS than in Paris (400 francs, or about $80). London and Paris telephones are now both under government control.

The problem of administration is as certain to be overcome, in time, as the obstacle of first cost. Our fleetest battleships are those built by the government, not by the private shipyards, and our Panama Canal could not have been finished under private engineers, even at government expense. It took a government engineer to do it.

The government can employ or train another VAIL or BETHEL, and it will in time, for government ownership of all telephones and telegraphs is BOTH DESIRABLE AND INEVITABLE.

A Suspicious Plan for Panama

The report that Secretary Garrison has determined upon a form of government of the Canal Zone and has determined upon a man to fill the delicate post of governor is disquieting.

It is true that nothing in the Secretary's utterances indicates that the man he has in mind is not Colonel Goethals. But it is reasonable to suppose that if the Secretary contemplated an appointment so thoroughly in compliance with the public demand he would not hesitate about announcing it.

Until a few months ago the Canal Commission was very efficiently guarded against politics, but the appointment as commissioner of a Nebraska politician, the editor of Mr. Bryan's "Commoner," awakened apprehension that this condition would not long endure.

Commissioner Metcalfe very promptly signaled his accession to office by recommending a commission form of government for the Zone in place of the present one-man power. A less self-confident person would perhaps have waited until he had learned his way about the Isthmus, and the difference between Culebra Cut and Gatun Dam before undertaking a plan for its government in opposition to Colonel Goethals.

Mr. Metcalfe was, however, so prompt in recommending a plan wholly at variance with the views of Colonel Goethals that many people suspect that he was sent there to do precisely that thing.

The people know Goethals and admire what he has done. They already look with suspicion upon the hasty and immature activities of Metcalfe. If the Secretary of War is incubating a plan for the aggrandizement of the latter, or for the displacement of the true builder of the Canal, he had better get ready for a storm.

HOW HUNTER STREET COULD BE IMPROVED BY GRADING

TRAFFIC congestion in the downtown district has become so serious a problem that ways and means of solving it are of paramount importance. The grading of Whitehall street between Mitchell and Garrett is an improvement the importance of which will be apparent to everyone as soon as the work has been completed.

Now comes a suggestion from John L. Ryan for the grading of Hunter street between Central avenue and Forsyth street. He submitted the accompanying drawing to illustrate the idea. Of this play he says:

"It will open a level street from Madison avenue to the rapidly growing business section on the east side of Whitehall, causing a great portion of the business which now seems to be so confined to the vicinity of Forsyth, Broad and the intervening streets on the west side of Whitehall to spread toward Central avenue.

"It can not but help the property owners who are within the blocks graded, as it will give them one or two more floors on the same land, and will afford the four large stores on the corners a Hunter street entrance as well as an entrance on Whitehall street.

"Owing to the lesser frontage value on these two blocks it should not cost the city anything for damages which may occur during the process of construction to business. The public comfort feature is of great importance to the welfare of the citizens, and is one that should not be overlooked.

"As the new courthouse is now being completed, nothing could give a more imposing effect than a level street on these two blocks."

MYSTERIES OF THE HEAVENS EXPLAINED—By Garrett P. Serviss

IF two smokers sitting in opposite chairs blow each a cloud of tobacco smoke toward the other, the clouds will meet and mingle, forming a little model of the stary universe, as it is represented by some of the latest investigations of astronomers.

The particles constituting each of the clouds have a common movement in the direction in which they were blown, so that when the clouds are combined two opposite motions appear, one set of particles traveling one way and another set just the contrary way.

In addition to this the particles have individual motions inside each cloud, so that, as the clouds penetrate one another, going in opposite directions, their respective particles do not all travel in perfectly parallel lines, or with equal velocity. There are stragglers among them, and some whirl around in eddies. But, as a whole, each of the original clouds retains its general direction of movement. No account is taken of the resistance of the air.

Now, to make this cloud of smoke with its oppositely moving particles present a striking image of the universe, as astronomers are beginning to see it, it is only necessary, in imagination, to scatter its particles more widely and to make every one of them shine like a miniature star.

For the latest studies of stellar motions show that there are in the heavens two vast star streams, moving in nearly opposite directions and apparently including, in motion along with our sun is one of the chief reasons why the double set of star currents was not discovered long ago.

We will not stop to inquire what could have been the reason for the meeting of two clouds of stars or what was the condition of those clouds before their encounter, for there are other strange facts to be considered.

To understand these we must recall that astronomers have been one or the other of their almost innumerable hosts all the shining orbs, great and small, that the eye or the telescope beholds in the immensity of space around us.

Our own sun is one of these flying particles, belonging to one able to tell the relative ages of the stars by analyzing their light. Such analysis shows what substances they are composed of and in what state those substances exist in the different stars.

It is generally considered that stars containing helium are the younger or the most recently formed. As more and more of the chemical elements appear in a star its age increases. In human life we have infancy, youth, young manhood, full manhood and old age; so in the stars there are four or five distinguishable ages, the first of which, stellar infancy, is represented by the condition of the helium stars.

Now (and this seems very strange) it has been found that the velocity of the individual stars moving in the two great streams of the two great intermingling stellar currents of which the visible universe consists. The fact that we ourselves are in swift or currents varies with the age of those individuals. The older the star the swifter its motion. Here is a decided departure from the human similitude that we have used for illustration, since among us agility decreases instead of increases with age!

The helium stars move very slowly; those of the next older class move more swiftly, and so on. And then the mystery deepens, for the helium stars, and their younger brethren, show a decided preference for one of the two great star streams, and the older stars exhibit an equally strong tendency to confine themselves to just the opposite stream! So the two mysterious currents consist, broadly speaking, the one of young, slow stars, and the other of old, swift stars. Why do they keep apart? And why, among the stars, is youth dashed with gravity and age inspired with nimbleness?

Although it would seem futile to try to answer such questions, even if put in a scientific form, yet Professor J. C. Kapteyn, one of the original discoverers of the streaming of the stars, has pointed out facts which may eventually clear up these mysteries. He shows that the sluggishness of the helium stars is an indication that they have been formed directly out of something which he calls "primordial matter" and which is probably identical with the substance of the huge nebulous cloud in the constellation Orion.

This primordial matter seems to be subject to almost no motion except that of the great current in which it lies. As it condenses into stars, gravitation begins to act more and more strongly upon it, and thus the stars, as they grow older and denser, acquire an increasing motion independent of the general movement.

In confirmation of this, the fact is pointed out that the Orion Nebula possesses precisely the movement characteristic of the helium stars, and so may be regarded as a birthplace of such stars.

BRISTLING with steeples, high against the hill,
Like some great thistle in the rosy dawn
It stood; the Town-of-Christian-Churches, stood.
The Traveller surveyed it with a smile.
"Surely," he said, "here is the home of peace.
Here neighbor lives with neighbor in accord:
God in the heart of all. Else why these spires?"
(Christmas season, and every bell ringing.)

The sudden shriek of whistles changed the sound
From mellow music into jarring notes;
Then down the street pale, hurrying children came,
And vanished in the yawning factory door,

He called to them: "Come back, come unto Me."
The foreman cursed, and camed him from the place.
(Christmas season, and every bell ringing.)

Forth from two churches came two men, and met,
Disputing loudly over boundary lines,
Hate in their eyes, and murder in their hearts.
A haughty woman drew her skirts aside
Because her fallen sister passed that way.
The Traveller rebuked them all. Amazed,
They asked in indignation, "Who are you,
Daring to interfere in private lives?"
The Traveller replied, "My name is CHRIST."
(Christmas season, and every bell ringing.)
